“Creating a nation of entrepreneurial engineers”

MISSION

The Epicenter is dedicated to unleashing the entrepreneurial potential of undergraduate engineering students across the US, in order to create bold innovators with the knowledge, skills and attitudes to contribute to the prosperity of the US economy and society at large.
APPROACH

Build an open-source community

Engineering Education

Entrepreneurship & Innovation Education
APPROACH

Pathways to Proficiency

Faculty & Students

Engage  Participate  Contribute  Lead

More Innovative Engineering Grads

Initiation  Immersion

RESULT

Join established firms

Innovative engineering graduates

Found startups

Become more innovative engineers, educators & scientists
TEAM

Stanford University
Tom Byers (PI)
Kathleen Eisenhardt (PI)
Sheri Sheppard (PI)
Tina Seelig (Director)
Leticia Britos Cavagnaro (Assoc. Director)

NCIIA
Phil Weilserstein (NCIIA Executive Director)
James Barlow (Program Director)
Angela Shartrand (Research & Assessment)
BOARDS
National leaders and domain experts

Advisory Board
Jim Breyer – Accel Partners
Shona Brown – Google
Leah Jamieson – Purdue Univ.
Kristina Johnson – Fmr. Undersec. Energy
Gary May – Georgia Tech
David Munson – Univ. of Michigan
Jim Plummer – Stanford Univ.
Karan Watson – ABET, Texas A&M

Curation Board
Stephanie Adams – Virginia Tech
Andy Hargadon – UC Davis
Paul Hudnut – Colorado State
Liz Kisenwether – Penn State
Steve Nichols – Univ. of Texas
Andrew Singer – Univ. of Illinois
Mark Somerville – Olin College

WHAT’S NEXT?
Visit epicenter.stanford.edu to:

• Sign-up for Epicenter updates
• Learn about upcoming events
• Tell us about successful examples of programs and resources
• Share your vision and contribute ideas for the Epicenter
• Spread the word to colleagues, faculty and students
“Creating a nation of entrepreneurial engineers”
epicenter.stanford.edu

@EpicenterUSA
facebook.com/EpicenterUSA